ETRA Field Experience Portfolio Instructions

The following instructions are designed to accompany the Field Experience Portfolio assignment in Blackboard and provide a more detailed, step-by-step description of the expectations for each page of the Portfolio. You are expected to follow this guide when creating your Blackboard Portfolio for your field experience, in which you will use the ETRA Field Experience Blackboard Portfolio Template available in Blackboard. For more information, contact your ETRA Field Experience Coordinator.

Portfolio Page 2 – Purpose

On this page of your Portfolio, you are to state your purpose and goals for your field experience.

LIS candidates must include goals that cover all 4 AASL standards. Generalists or TS Specialists should instead list the AECT or ISTE goals submitted with their application.

This information should be included directly within Page 2 of the Portfolio, instead of attaching an artifact.

Portfolio Page 3 – Journal/Log

On this page of your Portfolio, you are to attach your journal. Remember to note evidence of student achievement as appropriate and to document your experiences with diverse populations and in diverse settings.

Portfolio Page 4 – Artifacts

On this page of your Portfolio, you are to add artifacts generated during your field experience that demonstrate and support your field activities.

Add a new section on this page for each artifact. Attach the artifact to the section, and enter a description of the artifact including context, AASL (for Library Information Specialist field experience) or ISTE /AECT standards (for Technology Specialist or Generalist internships) the artifact represents, and any reflection you have about the construction or use of the artifact. Be sure to include comments about how these artifacts and activities contribute to student learning.

Portfolio Page 5 – Student’s Reflection of Experience

On this page of your Portfolio, you are to reflect upon your learning throughout the Field Experience. Enter your reflection as text on this page, rather than just attaching a document. As part of your reflection include information about the effect of your activities on student learning.

Reflective writing provides an opportunity to examine your learning experience, integrate it, and make it relevant for your own purposes. Your reflection illustrates the depth of your learning and needs to be thorough enough for you and your reader to draw an accurate picture.
Reflection is NOT summarizing. Summarize the content of the material or experience only as it is necessary for the reader to understand what you are saying and the comments you make.

Go in depth. The length of a reflection is dependent on the topic, the amount of material or length of the experience, and the depth of your integration of the ideas and connections you make to other material and experiences. The content of the reflection is what you think and how you integrate ideas; there should be depth, connections, evidence of understanding, and broad integration of ideas.

Summarize your understanding CONCISELY in your own words

- Support your perspective with examples from your own experience
- Agree, disagree and support your position
- Doubt or question any elements or conclusions
- Draw your own tentative conclusions and / or applications
- Identify and ask remaining questions

Reflection statements may include any of the following

- Your role as a teacher
- Knowledge gained throughout your learning experience
- Impact of teaching on student learning
- Interactions with students
- Learning theories/styles
- Interactions with colleagues
- Accounts of field experiences related to the standard
- What you recognize you still need to learn
- Difficulties you encounter in understanding the material
- Your participation in the class:
  - how you participated
  - how you could improve
  - what your participation contribute to your (or the group’s) understanding
  - what you still have to learn

The chart below reflects the certification and master’s portfolio categories for evidence of professional growth. Please consider including these categories in your reflection as they may pertain to your experience. This may assist you in compiling your MS Portfolio.
